Eggs and fish foods took the place of flesh in all of the eating houses and the proprietors report a cheerful spirit of assistance on the part of all patrons.

How the chefs of the institutions managed to prepare inviting meals without meat is shown by the following menu in force at one of the hotels:

NEW EVIDENCE OF PLOT TO MURDER MRS. KING CITED

Arrangement Alleged to Have Been Made in Means Home.

GRAND JURY HAS CASE

Concord, N. C., Oct. 29.—New evidence supporting the theory of the conspiracy to kill Mrs. Maude King earlier than August 29 is in the hands of the state. The grand jury today took up the murder charge against Gaston B. Means.

The new evidence of a conspiracy relates to the arrangements said to have been made in the Means home to kill Mrs. King a week earlier than the date of the alleged homicide. It is alleged to have come to the attention of prosecuting officials through a letter.

Sunday night the New York party went again to Blackwell's spring where Mrs. King was killed, and reenacted the tragedy. Anticipating at the trial a concentrated attack upon Charles Dry, the farmer who testifies to having heard the second shot and the calls of somebody in the party, these witnesses stationed one party at Dry's house and another at the spring asking them to carry on ordinary conversation. The two parties heard each other easily.

The defense today gave up hope of the grand jury's failure to return a true bill. It expects a long trial and may move for a change of venue. Both sides are said to favor such a change.

Assistant District Attorney John E. Dooling, Dr. Otto Schultze, a pathologist attached to District Attorney Swan's office in New York; Dr. William H. Burneister, coroner's physician of Cook county, Ill., who examined the woman's body after it was shipped to Chicago for burial; William T. Jones of New York, a pistol expert and a number of local witnesses were ready to appear for the hearing today but were not called.

FIRST CALL TO WOMEN: UNCLE SAM WANTS YOU

Will Register for War Service Throughout the Nation.

NEXT WEEK SET ASIDE

Will Sign Hoover Pledge Cards, Too —Communities Are at Work.

The first call of the government to the women of the United States for war service has gone out and next week every woman in the nation is asked to register to do their part in winning the great conflict. Every township in Lee county, in fact throughout the country, has been organized for the work. Mrs. Katherine Ballou, chairman of the Dixon township organization, and Mrs. L. P. Cooling, chairman of the registration committee, have completed arrangements for the registration of the women next week, and details will be announced later, together with registration places. Women of the township, however, are asked now to register early and thus facilitate the work of those ladies who are generously giving their time and efforts to the war work.

The part the fair sex is to play in the war is great. Uncle Sam has counted much on their work. They will complete a census of the resources of the women of the country, will sign the Hoover pledge cards, through which pledge a great saving in food will result, at the time of registration—and, in a word, offer their aid to the country in the same manner as the ten million young men have signed up for war duty.

Part Is Constructive.
The last and most terrible of all conflicts has developed the surprise that women have a part in war—and that part is constructive. Even now with our country only five months along in the conflict, 10,000,000 women are lined up for service, and their function is not to shoot men down, but to teach, to conserve, to foster, to build up.

Through the great woman's organization which is to be perfected through the registration and subsequent organization of all, the government will find a channel that will reach right into every American home. If it wants wool saved, it will communicate with the women; if it wants the state laws watched, it will get in touch with its fair citizens; if it wants the money of the nation conserved, it will appeal to the mothers, wives and sisters of its soldiers and its bondholders. In a word, if anything comes up in which the women can help, the government will call for the services which it knows will be cheerfully and patriotically given.

DIXON WOMEN BOND SELLERS

The women of Dixon township deserve special mention and great credit for the way in which they supported the second Liberty Loan, both in the way of purchasing the bonds and getting out to sell them.

Figures show that the women of Dixon township bought $62,200 in Liberty Bonds during the last campaign. One woman alone sold $13,000 worth of bonds by soliciting the women of her section of the city.

CANADA 'CHANGE OPENED LATE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) Montreal, Quebec, Oct. 30.—The Montreal stock exchange did not open today until 11 o'clock. The unofficial explanation was made that the exchange was closed because a number of brokers were in danger of ruin on account of their heavy holdings. It was decided to open the market with minimum prices established similar to those introduced when the exchange was opened in 1915 after it had been closed down on account of the war.

THE WEATHER

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) Generally fair tonight; Wednesday unsettled, probably light rain or snow; Wednesday rising temperature.

Mrs. Kate S. Rhodes left this afternoon for Clarion, Iowa, to visit her brother, William E. Walker.

Team Work

Germany's sole hope of victory is through starvation of England and France and Belgium and the others of our allies. Our weapon against Germany is to see that England and France and Belgium and the others of our allies have food.

The food deficits of our allies must be made up from our surplus. The amount you would be able to save for them, through economies or substitution, may seem too small to be worth while. But your savings, multiplied by twenty millions, will amount to a huge total.

That's why you should sign the Food Administration pledge this week and help blunt the cutting edge of Germany's weapon. It means team work.

TWO IMPORTANT WAR COMMITTEES NAMED IN COUNTY

Fuel Committee and County

Named.

DUTIES IMPORTANT

Two important war committees have been appointed in Lee county, namely, a County Fuel Administration Committee and a County Auxiliary Committee. Notification of these committees and their personnel comes through W. B. Brinton of Dixon.

In all these matters the local committee will make recommendations to the state fuel administration.

The County Auxiliary Committee of Lee county is composed of: P. M. James, Amboy. Henry S. Dixon, Dixon. William B. Brinton, Dixon. John W. Banks, Compton. Mrs. John G. Ralston, Dixon.

This committee is to meet within the next five days for the purpose of organization and mapping out a campaign of operation.

To Talk War.
The purpose of the Neighborhood Committee is to bring the people of Illinois "face to face" with the war, so that they may learn what the war means to them and to their country.

The committees are auxiliaries to the State Council of Defense, and Harold L. Ickes, chairman of the State Council of Defense, Neighborhood Committee, writes that the committee wants all neighborhood committees to bring the people of each community together to discuss war problems from the point of view of what each of us can do to help win the war.

"We landed in Houston at 6 o'clock Friday night. I cannot begin to tell you about our trip. It was the best I had ever taken and we all certainly enjoyed it, especially when we struck the warmer climate. When we arrived at camp they lined us up and gave us our choice of any branch of the service.

"So Albert Hunter and I saw the lieutenant and got in with what used to be Company G of Dixon, now in the Field Artillery. Lieut. Bud Preston was there to greet us, and we also saw Stub Woodyatt.

"When we woke up Friday morning we found eight of our cars on a ferry out in the middle of the Mississippi, and we thought for a little while we were on our way to France. We like it here, where it is so warm that we can sit around with our heavy shirts off."

November 4 Will Be "Go-To-Sunday School Day" In United States, Canada

The International Sunday School Association has called upon all states and Canadian provinces to unite in the observance of a continent-wide "Go-to-Sunday School Day" on Sunday, November 4. Illinois has responded to the call and has sent to the Sunday School Association for their schools. The first such day was observed in Kentucky in 1914. Lee county began the use of the plan in 1915, and has observed it each year since. The Lee county day is the Sunday nearest the middle of September, which can be adjusted later to the larger plan, at the next county Sunday school convention if desirable. Lee county intends to co-operate in the International Go-to-Sunday School day, and to assist in promoting its objectives as stated by the general secretary of the International Association, which represents over 18 million Sunday school people in North America.

The objectives of a continent-wide Go-to-Sunday School Day are:

1. To enlist recruits for the Sunday school.
2. To stimulate all Sunday schools to greater activity.
3. To advertise to the community that the Sunday school is for persons of all ages.
4. To impress upon the church a larger sense of its responsibility and opportunity in the Sunday school.
5. To emphasize the value of the Sunday school as an evangelistic and educational agency.
6. To emphasize temperance teaching and the importance of pledge signing, this Sunday being World's Temperance Sunday.
7. To impress upon all the importance of lining up the Sunday schools to help our government in such matters as Bible study among the soldiers, Red Cross promotion, and food conservation through the joint committee of the Sunday School Council and our association.
8. To vitalize the Sunday school work in order to maintain the proper moral tone among our young people.
9. To inaugurate plans whereby each local church and Sunday school may be kept in helpful, sympathetic touch with its members who go to the front in this world war.
10. To impress the great truth upon the young that while this war may change the map of the earth and overturn customs and institutions, God and His word, Jesus Christ and His saving power, man's individual responsibility for Christian living, abide and ever will abide unchanged.

HAIG RESUMED BATTLE TODAY WITH SUCCESS

British Infantry Renews

Roulers Railway.

GERMANS TAKE UDINE

Italians Are Stiffening and General Cadorna Begins to Reform Lines.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

The battle in Flanders this morning when the British attacked north of the Ypres-Roulers railroad. Field Marshal Haig announced the renewal of the offensive, adding merely that the troops were making good progress.

The line of attack takes in the Passchendaele region, where the remainder of the ridge of that name and the town itself are nearby British objectives.

Italians Stiffen.

Italian resistance to the Austro-German onslaught along the Isonzo apparently is stiffening, as General Cadorna prepares to reform his forces along the strong defensive line of the Tagliamento river. The entire Isonzo line has been turned and the Carso position has been given up to the Teutonic soldiery.

Hun Attack Futile.

On the Aisne front in northern France the Germans delivered a futile attack last night in an effort to push back the French in the region of Cerny. The artillery battle is continuing in the sector in which the French made their advance, where the hostile forces are now lined up on opposite sides of the Oise-Aisne canal.

BRITISH ATTACKED.

London, Oct. 30.—The British attacked on the Flanders front this morning. Good progress is reported by the war office.

The Germans have been driven back in places to a depth of nearly 1,000 yards on the Ypres front, the Reuters correspondent reports.

The principal fighting is taking place toward the outskirts of Passchendaele and in the region of Poelcapelle.

The fighting today is on a more limited front than the battle of last Friday. The weather was fine.

GERMANS PUSH FORWARD.

Berlin, Oct. 30.—The Austrians and Germans are pressing forward in the northern Italian plain toward the Tagliamento river, the official statement says. Austro-German troops advancing from the Carni Alps having reached Venetian soil on the whole front and are pressing forward against the upper course on the Tagliamento.

CAPTURE UDINE.

Berlin, Oct. 30.—Udine, the former Italian headquarters, has been occupied by Austro-German forces, the army headquarters announced today.

STILL RETREATING.

Rome, Oct. 30.—The Italian retreat continued yesterday, the war office announces. The Italian cavalry is in contact with van guards of the advancing enemy.

The Italians destroyed bridges over the Isonzo and fought rear guard action, by means of which they checked the invaders.

ITALIANS TO CHECK FOES

Washington Believes Cadorna Will Be Successful.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Word from Rome that the Italian line was holding against the terrific assault of the Austro-German forces was received by official Washington with eager interest and frank relief.

Satisfaction was found also in the announcement from London that steps already had been taken by the French and British to support the Italian front. There was no indication of what operations that announcement might foreshadow.

Even accepting the German claims at face value, many officers here believe General Cadorna will be able to check the drive if the morale of his army was not shattered. The announcement from Rome that all elements of the Italian forces were obeying orders of the general staff was viewed as setting at rest, for the time at least, the gravest fears for the final outcome of the struggle.

WASHINGTON BELIEVES CADORNA WILL BE SUCCESSFUL

Washington, Oct. 30.—Word from Rome that the Italian line was holding against the terrific assault of the Austro-German forces was received by official Washington with eager interest and frank relief.

Satisfaction was found also in the announcement from London that steps already had been taken by the French and British to support the Italian front. There was no indication of what operations that announcement might foreshadow.

FOES OF U. S. JAILED

"Daily Suicide" and "Starved Soldiers" Fabricators Held.

Rumors of Disaster to American War Forces Ascribed by Washington to German Propaganda.

New York, Oct. 30.—Government agents are bringing to account enemy aliens who circulate false reports concerning subjects connected with the country's prosecution of the war.

Among the Germans recently interned at Ellis island are several charged with giving circulation to tales that soldiers at nearby camps are committing suicide almost daily and that men in the National army cantonments are underfed.

Another is said to have invented a story of operations of German submarines off the Eastern coast of the United States, information of which, he said, newspapers in this country were forbidden to publish.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Undefined rumors, generally current throughout many sections of the country, purporting to hint at some disaster to American war forces, are ascribed to the same German propaganda which several weeks ago flooded the country with similar false reports. Any casual reports, it was reiterated, will be made public promptly by the government.

Boy Scouts Entertainment
The Boy Scouts of Troop 5, which includes boys of the Presbyterian Sunday School, gave a Halloween party at the church Saturday evening. Admission was charged at the entrance and the boys have about five dollars net to show as the result of their affair. Their program of entertainment was very varied and included an exhibition of such novelties as two baby alligators, sea shells, etc.; fortune telling by the Misses Betty Forrest and Leona Purkes, dressed as Gypsies, and Winifred Roe, as a witch; a vocal duet by the Misses Alice Coppins and Dorothy Raymond, who were dressed as Red Cross nurses; moving pictures with the machine in charge of David Law; and the reading of Red Cross facts by Henrietta Vail, who was also dressed as a Red Cross nurse. Henry Bokhof and Robert Brenner were dressed as sailor boys. Wesley Morris, Jack Forest, and Walter Moses had charge of a candy stand which was well patronized during the evening. Refreshments of sandwiches, cocoa, ice cream and wafers were served, the admission price covering all with the exception of the ice cream for which a fee of five cents was asked. As the young people were especially interested in the statements regarding the Red Cross, they are published below:

Why We Should Belong to the Red Cross
The American Red Cross is the only voluntary society to which the government has given power to help our soldier or sailor boys in time of war. The Red Cross operates under a charter granted by Congress and supplemented by the proclamation of the President.

The Red Cross furnishes on call by the Secretary of War or of the Navy, voluntary aid in war time to sick and wounded and adds comfort to all soldiers and sailors.

The Red Cross had its origin in an international conference held in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1863.

The President of the U. S. is the president of the American National Red Cross. Also the most generally considered president of the Red Cross is ex-President William Howard Taft and the general manager is Harvey D. Gibson.

Any resident of the U. S. may be a member of the Red Cross. It has now more than 200,000 members and 350 Chapters.

If the American people are going to support their Red Cross in our national emergency they must join it and join now.

In Japan 1 in every 22 is a Red Cross member, in Germany 1 in every 40 is a Red Cross member, in Russia 1 in every 142 is a Red Cross member and in the U. S. 1 in every 291 is a Red Cross member. We must have more. We must not let Japan, Germany, or even Russia get ahead of us in the number of persons who are members of their Red Crosses.

The Red Cross wants and needs 1,000,000 members—that is one in every 100 Americans. Join now if you are not already a member.

The Red Cross needs money to carry on the work it wants to. The Red Cross has now in Washington a newly constructed white marble building which is the National Red Cross quarters. The Red Cross formerly was in the same building as the War Department, but now the Red Cross has its own building. This building cost $800,000. $400,000 was given by the War Department and $400,000 was given by the Red Cross members.

There are 13 divisions of the Red Cross. We belong to the Central and our manager is at Chicago. This Central division includes Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Nebraska.

Four good facts about the Red Cross are:

1. A great part of the Red Cross work is carried on by men and women who receive no money at all.
2. All accounts of the Red Cross are audited by the U. S. War Dept.
3. About $.95 out of every $1.00 given to the Red Cross is spent for relief work.
4. Germany has given our Red Cross permission to send once in every two weeks 5-10 lb. packages of food to each American in the German prisons.

A very small thing for us to do which will help our country is to pay our dollar or more and join the Red Cross. If one out of every 100 in the U. S. should join the Red Cross it would have all the members it needed to supply it with the help necessary to keep it and our country up in good shape.

Pumpkin Pie Social
A "Pumpkin pie" social will be held at the Wooding School on Wednesday evening, October 31st. A Halloween program will be given and decorations fitting to the season will be used. The teachers in charge of the affair are Miss Schmucker and Miss Hess. "Pumpkin pie" sounds tempting, doesn't it, and there is no doubt but a large number will respond to the invitation to be present.

THREE GENERATIONS OF WOMEN
The young women of this generation, their mothers and grandmothers have proved from actual experience that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes the suffering caused by female ills and restores them to a healthy condition. This famous medicine contains no narcotics or habit-forming drugs—but is made from medicinal roots and herbs, nature's remedy for disease. If you are suffering from any form of female ills, it will pay you to give it a trial.

Progressive Halloween Dinner
The Misses Viola Flemming, Gladys Jones, Dorothy Gonneman, Bessie Vaughn, and Mary Schmucker have a pleasant time planned for Halloween. The affair is to be a progressive dinner, the first course to be served at the home of Miss Flemming, the second with Miss Jones, the third with Miss Gonneman, the fourth with Miss Vaughn, and the last at the home of Miss Schmucker. Halloween decorations will make festive each home and Halloween favors will be given with each course. At the home of Miss Schmucker marshmallows and apples will be roasted over the grate fire and Miss Schmucker's sister, Miss Olive, will tell fortunes.

Mooseheart Legion to Meet

After the dinner, music was enjoyed while those present indulged in knitting.

Were Married in Chicago
When Mrs. Martha Shippert, of R. F. D. No. 5, invited twenty-five friends and relatives to her home for Sunday dinner they were not aware of the surprise in store for them. All they knew was that her daughter, Miss Stella, and fiancé, J. A. Borncamp, were to be guests of honor. When all had arrived the secret of their marriage in Chicago, October 13th, was revealed. After hearty congratulations a sumptuous turkey dinner was served in the dining room, which was very prettily decorated for the occasion, autumn leaves and chrysanthemums being used.

Mrs. Borncamp is the oldest daughter of Mrs. Martha Shippert. She attended the Dixon College, graduating from oratory in the class. During the past few years she has been acting as head cashier at the Peacock Jewelry Company, Chicago, Illinois. Mr. Borncamp is a broker. He has visited in Dixon a number of times and is held in very high esteem by all who have met him.

Mr. and Mrs. Borncamp returned to Chicago last evening accompanied to the depot by the younger people who showered them with rice and good wishes. They will soon leave for an extended trip which will include Travers City, Michigan, New York City, Rochester, N. Y., and California. On their return they will be at home to their many friends at 1207 Michigan Ave., Evanston, Illinois, where Mr. Borncamp has recently furnished a residence for his bride.

A host of friends in and about Dixon extend good wishes.

Practical Club to Meet
The Practical Club will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. L. D. Miller. Mrs. Clinton Rhodes will have the paper of the afternoon.

At the Red Cross Shop
Work at the Red Cross shop is progressing nicely although just now so many are knitting for the boys of Company M at Rockford that not quite so many knitted articles are being turned in. However, last week saw seven boxes of articles, mostly knitted goods although there were probably two boxes of the surgical supplies among them, sent to Chicago. The shop now has over its full number of scarfs and wristlets, but the quota is slightly short on helmets and socks.

A FOOD WASTER IS A PUBLIC ENEMY.

A man embarked upon a long voyage, taking with him food sufficient to last throughout the trip if consumed in moderation. But during the first few days he ate it all, fairly gorging himself, and throwing overboard food that no longer tickled his palate. Then for a day or two he was content to do without food. But that did not last long. Within a few days the pangs of hunger became acute and in his starvation delirium he prayed to the waves to give up the bits of food he had tossed away as undesirable.

A very foolish man, you say.

Surely, and so are a people standing in our shoes today who would waste food as many of us are doing.

The American farmer has finished his season's toil. He has given us 660,000,000 bushels of wheat, 20,000,000 more bushels than he was able to raise last year. He has grown for us 3,211,000,000 bushels of corn, 86,000,000 more bushels than he harvested in the record-breaking crop year of 1912. He has dug 453,000,000 bushels of potatoes, 168,000,000 more bushels than in 1916, and the bean crop is nearly double that of last year.

He did his best.

We start the journey through the coming war-laden winter with enough food to feed this nation and to keep our allies from starvation if the food is not wasted. If we are like the foolish man in the boat and consume our meat and wheat and waste much of it in garbage cans and overloaded stomachs there'll be pangs of hunger felt by millions of human beings—here in America and over the seas in Britain, France and Belgium —before another harvest season arrives.

It will be too late to begin conserving food when most of it has been used or wasted. The waves did not give back to the foolish man the crumbs and scraps of food he had thrown away.

Clearly it is up to us to conserve those millions of bushels of food American farmers have grown for us. And we must start now.

When Herbert Hoover set apart this week as food conservation week he hoped that every person would commence the formation of a food conservation habit which would extend over all the days of food shortage. He would have us begin early—now, at the very moment when the nation's farms are giving up all this food.

Hoover would put an end to every food waster, be that person in the kitchen, at the dining table, on the farm or in charge of the transportation and storing of foods. He would stamp as an enemy that person who wastes food.

TEACHING CITIZENSHIP.

Since the opening of the school year the public school authorities of the United States, working in close co-operation with the Bureau of Naturalization of the United States Department of Labor, have maintained night school classes for alien instruction in many cities, towns and rural communities all over the country. The work is planned to represent Americanization in the truest meaning of the word.

It is estimated that one-seventh of the people of the United States are foreign-born, with a large proportion ignorant of the national ideals and institutions and, to that extent, loyal to the country of their nativity. Never in the history of the nation has undivided support been so greatly needed.
A knowledge of the United States government and what it stands for can be gained by the aliens only through education, but, once understood, loyal allegiance to the country of their adoption usually follows.

Last year the night school classes for alien instructors were maintained in approximately 1,700 centers. The opening of this year's classes is accompanied by every assurance of increased attendance and a material betterment of the results already obtained through this educational campaign.

It is the confident belief of the Bureau of Naturalization that instruction will gradually transform this vast number of aliens into an army of Americans with common ideals, common hopes, common sentiments and unadulterated loyalty.

The present volume of naturalization shows that more than half a million alien residents annually bring themselves within the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Naturalization. It is the plan of the bureau, through the co-operation of the public schools with its educational movement, to change that portion of the alien body now in a state of helpless dependence or mere self-maintenance to a state of productive capacity.

Activities of the Bureau of Naturalization show how a routine government agency has been transformed into a great humanizing force. This has been accomplished by linking together the federal and state courts, the Federal Government and the state public schools, for the purpose of extending educational aid to candidates for citizenship. The work of the bureau now as the term is generally understood stands for more than naturalization stood. It cordially welcomes and brings into the national family alien friends fully qualified, through public school instruction, for the title of citizenship.

SAVE SOFT CORN.

There will be a great deal of soft corn in parts of Illinois this fall, which unless wisely used, will mean a big loss of food, says the editor of Prairie Farmer.

The only profitable way to make use of this soft corn is as livestock feed. As much of it as possible should be made into silage at once, if that has been done already, then enough to fill the silos again should be cut and shocked.

Along in the winter, after the silos have been fed out, this shocked corn can be used to refill them. If put into the silo with plenty of water it will make a fair quality of silage. By using as much of this soft corn as possible for silage it can be converted into milk, beef or mutton, and will give mighty satisfactory returns.

The hog raiser cannot use silage, but if he has a silo he can snap the ears and put them in a silo, cutting them up as fine as possible. This snapped corn silage makes very good hog feed, and this is about the only way to keep this soft corn through to next summer for feeding hogs.

It will pay to hog down as much of this soft corn as possible before bad weather sets in. Hogs do well and make rapid gains on soft corn. The corn that is not hogged down and is soft and sappy, had better be left in the field all winter to be snapped off and fed to the hogs as needed. If a very great amount of this sappy corn is piled up it is likely to spoil, especially so in a spell of warm weather.

If some of the corn is soft and some fairly sound it will pay to husk it and sort it; the sound corn can be cribbed for summer feed and the soft corn fed out in the winter.

The letters written home by the boys in the various branches of the U. S. service make good reading. And if you like to hear from them, think how much more they would like to hear from you. Write letters to all your friends in the service. A letter from a friend at home means more than a square meal to a soldier boy.

line of business, must bend every effort to economy and national unity.

London, Oct. 30.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Rome says it is reported from Berne that the Austro-Swiss frontier again has been closed and that the Germans are hurrying reinforcements to the Italian war front.

Berlin, Oct. 30.—The Austro-German troops invading northern Italy are standing before Udine, where the Italian headquarters have been located, according to army headquarters announcement.

The third Italian army made a brief resistance to the advancing Teutonic forces from Wippach to the Adriatic. This army is now in retreat along the Adriatic coast.

Cornons has been captured and the Austro-German troops are approaching the frontier of the Italian coast region. The number of prisoners is increasing.

Entire Front Has Collapsed. The Italian front is yielding north of the sector which was pierced in the Teutonic attack, the weakening extending as far as Piavecca pass.

The entire Italian Isonzo front has collapsed, the statement adds. The second Italian army is retreating toward the Tagliamento. All the roads are covered with columns in disorderly retreat, the crowds comprising both soldiers and civil population.

Teutons Lose 20,000.

Berlin, Oct. 30.—Twenty thousand Austrians and Germans have been lost so far in the drive against Italy, according to information from Austrian sources, received here.

Italians Check Advance.

Rome, Oct. 30.—The Italians are checking the advance of Austro-Germans into the plains of northern Italy, the war office announces.

The announcement follows: "All movements ordered by the general staff are being carried out regularly and the troops which are opposing the enemy are fulfilling their duty by keeping in check his advance into the plains."

The effect of the Austro-German offensive on the political situation has been to eliminate party differences. The retiring cabinet is expected to remain with comparatively few changes, under the premiership of Prof. Vittorio Orlando. Deputy Francesco Nitti, who was a member of the Italian mission to the United States, probably will enter the Orlando ministry.

ALLIES CONTINUE TO GAIN
Ready to Attack Last Post of German Resistance in West Flanders.

With the French front in Flanders, Oct. 30.—As a result of the last week's steady advance along the Dixmude, the French lines are encircling both the west and south sections of Houthulst forest. That bit of what used to be woodland is the center of the German resistance still holding to West Flanders. On the southeast the Germans in the wood face a British encircling movement.

The fact that comparatively few prisoners are being taken by the French is due, according to German officers, to the fact that the enemy is carrying out orders to move before yielding.

Paris, Oct. 30.—Belgian activities in West Flanders in the last twenty-four hours have resulted in the capture of about fifty Germans and several machine guns. Raids were carried out north and south of Dixmude and north of Mecken, where a Teutonic post was seized.

An attack was made by the Germans near Chaume wood. They gained a footing in the advanced French positions, but the greater portion of the ground was gained in a counter-attack.

Quarrel in Chattanooga Restaurant Results in Fatality.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 30.—Detective Joe Ivins of the city police force shot and instantly killed J. W. Flanagan, a member of Company C, Eleventh Infantry, in an altercation. The tragedy occurred in a restaurant and was witnessed by several soldiers from Fort Oglethorpe. He was placed in jail.

CHICAGO HAS COAL CARDS

Fuel Administrator to Stop Hoarding of Fuel.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Chicago's coal hoarding days are past. Starting today every person who wishes to purchase coal must sign a prepared blank at his dealer's telling how much coal he desires, the amount used last year, the amount on hand and probable time it will last. If there is suspicion that the customer is attempting to buy coal to store, the dealer is instructed to refuse the order. The fuel administration makes the retailer responsible for the customers' statements and reserves the right to make an independent investigation. If fraud is discovered both the dealer and customer are liable to punishment. This plan was worked out by the advisory committee appointed by John E. Williams, federal fuel administrator for Illinois.

This is real Heale weather. You can buy it at any first class drug store.

CHAPTER XVII.
Tarzan Returns.
And Korak?
Tantor carried him deep into the jungle, nor passed until no sound from the distant village reached his keen ears. Then he laid his burden gently down. Korak struggled to free himself from his bonds, but even his great strength was unable to cope with the many strands of hard knotted cord that bound him.
And while he struggled through the night with his bonds Baynes and Meriem were riding rapidly northward along the river. The girl had assured Baynes that Korak was safe in the jungle with Tantor. It had not occurred to her that the ape man might not be able to burst his bonds. Baynes had been wounded by a shot from the rifle of one of the Arabs, and the girl wanted to get him back to Bwana's home, where he could be properly cared for.
"Then," she said, "I shall get Bwana to come with me and search for Korak. He must come and live with us."
All night they rode, and the day was still young when they came suddenly upon a party hurrying southward. It was Bwana himself and his sleek, black warriors.
At sight of Baynes the big English man's brows contracted in a scowl, but he waited to hear Meriem's story before giving vent to the long pent anger in his breast. When she had finished he seemed to have forgotten Baynes. His thoughts were occupied with another subject.
"You say that you found Korak?" he asked. "You really saw him?"
"Yes," replied Meriem; "as plainly as I see you, and I want you to come with me, Bwana, and help me find him again."
"Did you see him?" He turned toward the Hon. Morison.
"Yes, sir," replied Baynes; "very plainly."
"What sort of appearing man is he?" continued Bwana. "About how old would you say?"
"I should say he was an Englishman about my own age," replied Baynes. Bwana turned to his head man.
"Take Miss Meriem and Mr. Baynes home," he said. "I am going into the jungle."
Then he motioned to his head man to take his horse and commence the return journey to the farm. Meriem slowly mounted the tired horse that had brought her from the village of the sheik. A litter was rigged for the now feverish Baynes, and the little cavalcade was soon slowly winding off along the river trail.
Bwana stood watching them until they were out of sight.
Slowly he turned toward a nearby tree. Leaping upward, he caught a lower branch and drew himself up among the branches. His movements were catlike and agile. High into the tree he made his way and there commenced to divest himself of his clothing.
After Bwana had left his party, sending them back toward the farm, Meriem had ridden for a short distance with bowed head. What thoughts passed through that active brain who may say? Presently she seemed to come to a decision. She called the head man to her side.
"I am going back with Bwana," she announced.
The black shook his head. "No," he announced. "Bwana says I take you home. So I take you home."
Presently her horse passed beneath a low hanging branch, and the black head man found himself gazing at the girl's empty saddle. He ran forward to the tree into which she had disappeared. He could see nothing of her. He called, but there was no response unless it might have been a low, fainting laugh far to the right. He sent his men into the jungle to search for her, but they came back empty handed.
After awhile he resumed his march toward the farm, for Baynes by this time was delirious with fever.
Meriem, shuddering the awkward Arab robe he had given her in the sheik's dour, raced in riding breeches and barefoot straight back toward the point she imagined Tantor would make for, a point where she knew the elephants often gathered deep in the forest east of the sheik's village. She moved silently and swiftly. From her mind she had expunged all thoughts other than that she must reach Korak and bring him back with her.
Now there came to her sensitive nostrils the scent of Tantor, and she knew that she was on the right trail and close to him she sought. She did not call out, because she wished to surprise him, and presently she did, breaking into sight of them as the great elephant shuffled ahead, balancing the man and the heavy stake upon his head, holding them there with his up-curved trunk.
"Korak!" cried Meriem from the foliage above him.
Instantly the bull swung about, lowered his burden to the ground and,

Then He Charged Down Upon the Frail Girl.

his eyes upon the face of Meriem's deliverer, and as recognition slowly filtered into his understanding they went wide in incredulity and surprise. Tantor, still rumbling angrily, stood swaying to and fro before the giant white man.
Then the latter stepped straight beneath the upraised trunk and spoke a low word of command. The great beast ceased his muttering. The savage light died from his eyes, and as the stranger stepped forward toward Korak, Tantor trailed docilely at his heels.
Meriem was watching, too, and wondering. Suddenly the man turned toward her.
"Come, Meriem!" he called. And then she recognized him with a startled "Bwana!"
"Jack!" cried the white giant, kneeling at the ape man's side.
"Father!" came chokingly from the Killer's lips. "Thank God that it was you! No one else in all the jungle could have stopped Tantor."
Quickly the man cut the bonds that held Korak, and as the youth struggled weakly to his feet and threw his arms about his father, the older man turned toward Meriem.
"I thought," he said, sternly, "that I told you to return to the farm."
Korak was looking at them wonderingly. In his heart was a great yearning to take the girl in his arms, but in time he remembered the other—the dapper young English gentleman—and that he was but a savage ape man.
Meriem looked pleadingly into Bwana's eyes.
"You told me," she said in a very small voice, "that my place was beside the man I love." And she turned her eyes toward Korak, all filled with the wonderful light that no other man had yet seen in them and that none other ever would.
The Killer started toward her with outstretched arms, but suddenly he fell upon one knee before her instead of lifting her hand to his lips, kissed it more reverently than he could have kissed the hand of his country's queen.
A rumble from Tantor brought the three, all jungle bred to instant alertness. Tantor was looking toward the trees behind them, and as their eyes followed his gaze the head and shoulders of a great ape appeared amid the foliage.
For a moment the creature eyed them, and then from his throat rose a loud scream of recognition and of joy, and a moment later the beast had leaped to the ground, followed by a score of bulls like himself, and was waddling toward them, shouting in the primordial tongue of the anthropoid,

"Tarzan has returned! Tarzan, lord of the jungle!"
It was Ape, and instantly he commenced leaping and bounding about the trio, uttering hideous shrieks and mouthings that to any other human beings might have indicated the most ferocious rage, but these three knew that the king of the apes was doing homage to a king greater than himself.
Korak laid his hand affectionately upon his father's shoulder.
"There is but one Tarzan," he said. "There can never be another."

"UNWRITTEN LAW" SAVES ENGLISHMAN

Army Officer Is Acquitted on Murder Charge.

TRIAL LASTS BUT FEW HOURS

Case Is Unprecedented in the History of English Jurisprudence — Dead Man Believed to Have Been German Spy—Officer Is Free in Less Than Month.

A remarkable case is that of Lieut. Douglas Malcolm, Royal artillery, attached to the headquarters staff of the British army in France, who, at Old Bailey, London, after a trial of a few hours, was acquitted of the murder of Anton Baumberg, alias "Count de Borch," believed to be a German agent, but mentioned in the London press merely as a "slacker."

Before the coroner's jury which gave the verdict of "justifiable homicide," the police court justice who held him for trial, and the jury at Old Bailey which set him free, Malcolm repeatedly declared that he had killed the count to save his honor.

The London press emphasizes the fact that the case is the first in the history of English jurisprudence where the "unwritten law" has prevailed as a defense at a murder trial.

Yet, the defense made no attempt to introduce that plea and the prosecution repeatedly declared that it could not be admitted. The prosecution, however, did a remarkable thing. Its attorney at the examination said:

"All homicide is prima facie murder. This case contains every element of willful murder. . . . But in this case it will be admitted by the prosecution, and contended by the defense, that if ever there did exist, or could exist, a motive which would be adequate for murder, that motive existed with the prisoner in this case."

Decided in Record Time.
There were other curious phases: The whole procedure occupied less time than was ever known before in a British murder case—in less than a month from the day Baumberg was shot—the perpetrator was a free man. There were stories of challenges to duels sent and ignored and revelations secretly made by Scotland Yard to the defendant in regard to the mysterious "count" which did not figure as evidence at either examination or trial.

At the inquest held by Mr. Byrne, deputy coroner for Paddington, it was shown that "Count de Borch," age thirty-two, was found in his bed, in a boarding house at 3 Portchester place, Hyde Park, with fatal shot wounds in his head and chest and that Lieutenant Malcolm was present.
Detective Sergt. Alfred Davies stated that Lieutenant Malcolm, while waiting to go before the magistrate, said: "It is all over now. I went to give him a good thrashing with the whip. I gave him one before; he is such a coward. I have done all I can to get him away from my wife, and her from him. He is a white slave trafficker, and a spy. Scotland Yard knows all about him. I have called there. You can imagine how I felt when I saw the coward who has been trying to get my wife to go away with him, and me out in France helpless to defend her honor. Can you wonder at what I did on the impulse of the moment when I saw the cur before me who was luring my wife to dishonor?"

The witness, continuing, said that Baumberg was a powerfully built man of 5 feet 11½ inches, but was not in good condition, being "flabby" in appearance.

"I Have Shot a Man."
Police Constable Stephens of Scotland Yard stated that Lieutenant Malcolm said to him: "I want you to come to 3 Portchester place. I have shot a man." The witness accompanied the lieutenant to that address, and there saw the body of a man lying on the bed bleeding from the head and chest, with the mouth wide open. The bedclothes were all disarranged. Lieutenant Malcolm said to him: "I suppose you had better have the revolver that I shot him with."

Detective Sergeant McHattie, who made a search of Baumberg's room, stated that he found a loaded pistol in one of the drawers, correspondence, mostly from women, and three letters addressed to Baumberg from Lieutenant Malcolm. He also found several letters from Mrs. Malcolm to Baumberg. Mrs. Malcolm had acknowledged that she had written them. At the police station the witness charged Lieutenant Malcolm with the murder of Anton Baumberg, and he replied, "Very well; I did it for my honor."

Lieutenant Malcolm wrote to Baumberg as follows:

"If I ever hear of your trying to see or even talk to my wife again, wherever I am I will get leave and hunt you out and give you such a thrashing that even your own mother would not know you, and I will thrash you until I have named you for life. This I swear before God, in whom I believe,

and he is my witness."
Writes to His Wife.
On the day on which Baumberg was shot Lieutenant Malcolm wrote to his wife:
"My Very Own Darling Dorothy Dear God. It is time—everything points to it that this creature is the most unutterable blackguard ever born. I shudder to think that he ever dared to speak to you. I simply can't stand it any longer. I am going to thrash him until he is unrecognizable. I may shoot him if I think he has got a gun. I expect he has, as he is too much of a coward to stand a thrashing. If the inevitable has to happen, of course I may get it in the neck. You see I am quite cool. If that happens oh, believe me, my own little darling my beloved soul whom I love so absolutely, believe me, it is only for you. I love you more than any man has ever loved a woman before. You are a brave woman, noble, honorable, and upright, with a beautiful soul. I believe in God. I said yesterday that I did not, but I do, I do. I thank God from the bottom of my heart that he has sent me over in time to save you from this devil incarnate. Your honor is saved, thank God. Oh, thank God. "Good-by, which means God be with you. I love you. I shall go on loving you for eternity, for ever and ever. I know I shall meet you in the next world if the worst happens, when you will come to me with open arms, and with those beautiful eyes shining, and say to me, 'Duggie, I forgive.' "Yours for ever and ever, oh, so lovingly, your own Duggie."

Disregard Judge's Charge.

After the coroner's jury had brought in the verdict: "Justifiable homicide in self-defense," Lieutenant Malcolm was instantly arrested and arraigned at Marylebone police court.

Then came the trial by jury at Old Bailey before Justice McCarthy. In opening for the defense Attorney Simon declared:

"We do not appeal to the 'unwritten law' but only to justice. Lieutenant Malcolm acted the only course open to him to save not only his wife's honor but her body and soul from destruction at the hands of an infamous scoundrel."

Justice McCarthy in summing up vigorously attacked the "unwritten law."

"The unwritten law," his honor declared, "opposes the elementary principles of British justice that the husband has no legal property in his wife's body; that she is mistress of her own destiny and if she chooses to give herself to another the husband is not entitled to punish the other man."
In spite of this summing up the jury ordered the defendant acquitted.

An Improvement on Nature.

A certain Chicago pork packer, visiting the mountains, was one of a group witnessing a gorgeous sunset in a sky just streaked with lights that reminded one of the glories of the aurora. "Yes," he said, when asked how he liked it; "it certainly is a mighty colorful sunset—certainly is! By the way, I want to show you one my daughter painted!"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

A simple way for damp sheets is the following: Place a mirror between them for a few minutes. If the surface clouds over, discard the sheets and sleep between the blankets.

WAR TALKS

By UNCLE DAN
Number Five

Jimmie and a German Boy Clash—Must Do Three Things to Save Country.

It was a warm evening, so Uncle Dan went out to a lawn seat under the spreading branches of the great tree that suggested the farm's name of Oak Hill. Billie and Jimmie had been laying for him, so Uncle Dan was captured by the boys on short order.

"Say, Uncle Dan," Billie began. "We had a red-hot argument at school yesterday with Carl Newman. Carl said that German schools were miles ahead of our schools and that no one could come up to the educated German. Well, Jimmie got hot under the collar and handed it back to him good and plenty. Jimmie said if their education taught them to torpedo Lusitanias, sink hospital ships, murder hundreds of women and children, make slaves of the Belgians, poison wells, destroy fruit trees and commit all sorts of crimes, then we did not want that kind of education here. What do you think about it, Uncle Dan? I told Jimmie you spent a lot of time in Europe and knew all about schools, so give us your opinion."

"Well," replied Uncle Dan, deliberately, "the German schools are very thorough; they furnish exceedingly valuable and practical instruction. The industrial training given there is probably the best to be found. The schools as a whole, however, in my opinion, appeal to the head only, and never to the heart. The aim and trend is to make the individual blindly submissive to the Prussian plan of world domination; they teach that it is the destiny of Germany to rule the world, and that to the glory and advance of Germany, in this plan, all things must give way; that the Kaiser as head of the state, can do no wrong if he carries forward the plan of world control. Some of the greatest teachers and preachers even defend and justify her heartless crushing of Belgians and the many other atrocious crimes she has committed in this war. Thank God, our American education reaches both the head and the heart. It is an education with a soul, and we must maintain the high ideals we have fixed. In a word, in Germany, the people are taught that they exist for the government, while here the government exists to serve the people."

"Just wait a minute," interrupted Billie. "Say that over again slowly, so I can write it down."

Uncle Dan, smilingly, complied. Billie exclaimed: "Now, we will hand that out for Carl to crack. Carl, you know," continued Billie, "has a very smart father who keeps him posted on the German arguments. Carl said our government was only an experiment anyway; that it would not last twenty years, and that it might burst up any old time. Jimmie asked him if Germany was so mighty good, why they did not go back there to live."

"Our government will go on forever, won't it, Uncle Dan?"

"Now," said Uncle Dan, "you are raising a big question, and one that has troubled me for years. Our government is still in the experimental stage; in fact, it is the greatest experiment ever undertaken, and if popular government is to be successful, a few things must be done, otherwise, the government of the people, by the people and for the people, will perish. It is my firm conviction," said Uncle Dan, in a very impressive manner, "that if our country is to go on, as we hope and pray, we must very quickly do at least three things, and I will name them in the order of importance as it appears to me:

"First, adopt compulsory universal military training of all young men physically fit before they reach the age of twenty years.

"Next, require that every foreigner who comes here to live must, within a reasonable time, say a year, declare his intention of becoming an American citizen and take the necessary steps to do so, thereby, from that moment, assuming all the obligations of citizenship of our country, and that means he must defend our flag upon equal terms with our native born, and if he is not willing to do this, he should be sent back from whence he came."

"That's the stuff," exclaimed Billie. "And, finally, enact such legislation as will make voting compulsory. Popular government is based upon the participation of all and the rule of the majority, and democracy cannot continue and be successful unless we live up to the spirit of the institution."

"The first step, however, is the passing of the Chamberlain bill for universal military training. If you will get the leading citizen, and especially the editor of your paper, to write personal letters to your congressman and both senators, urging their support, it will help enormously."

"I see by the morning papers," said Uncle Dan, "that the Rotary clubs of the entire country, the liveliest, most efficient organization to be found, have unanimously decided to get back of the Chamberlain bill and give it loyal and enthusiastic support. They will work with the Universal Military Training league to accomplish this important piece of legislation, which will do more than anything else to make us a real nation with a common viewpoint, bring us back to sane living, and teach us the patriotism of service."

Natural Heating Plant.

During severe winter weather range cattle in the Bad Lands of western North Dakota are seen now and then congregated about a great fissure in a red, naked hillside. Investigation shows that a warm current of air rising through the fissure from a burning coal bed underneath has attracted them.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally that Nobody can tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Nobody can do the right thing always. The best any of us can do is to go ahead and do the right thing as often as possible.—Detroit Free Press

YES! MAGICALLY! CORNS LIFT OUT WITH FINGERS

You simply say to the drug store man, "Give me a quarter of an ounce of freezone." This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn from one's feet.

A few drops of this new ether compound applied directly upon a tender, aching corn should relieve the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn, root and all, dries up and can be lifted out with the fingers.

This new way to rid one's feet of corns was introduced by a Cincinnati man, who says that, while freezone is sticky, it dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin.

Don't let father die of infection or lockjaw from whitening at his corns, but clip this out and make him try it.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble—Salts fine for Kidneys.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush out the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

U. S. HITS PROFITEERS

Wholesalers Will Refuse Goods to Some Retailers.

Government Prepares to Prosecute Coal Dealers Who Ignore President's Price Regulations.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Food Administrator Hoover will cut off the supplies of retail food profiteers until the end of the war.

A new regulation goes into effect November 1. It provides that no manufacturer, wholesaler or other handler of foods will be allowed to sell to any retailer who makes unreasonable profits or buys quantities of food for speculation.

"The food administration does not intend to disturb any legitimate operations," said a statement issued at Mr. Hoover's office. "It takes the position that the great majority of food sellers are patriotic and honest.

"Such dealers will be protected. Those few who persist in abusing their opportunities will receive attention."

The food administration launched its week's campaign to formally pledge 23,452,727 families in the United States for conservation of food supplies.

Campaigners in Iowa enrolled 72,600 families and in Indiana 67,823 families. Already 2,155,707 families have enrolled.

The government also moved to check speculation in canned goods. Special regulations were issued by Mr. Hoover to govern canners, who will be placed under license on November 1.

Rigid prohibitions were promulgated against the sale of futures in canned peas, corn, tomatoes, salmon and sardines before February 1.

An ample supply of white and sweet potatoes at prevailing prices is predicted by the agricultural department. The white potato crop is a million bushels above normal and the sweet potato crop exceedingly abundant.

Congressmen will give away no flower seed this year except when especially requested.

Attorney General Gregory decided that the coal profiteers shall also feel the strong arm of the law. Many specimen cases in which the public has been "gouged" by dealers have been laid before the department of justice for investigation, and instructions have been sent for vigorous prosecution of violators. Fines not exceeding $5,000 and two years' imprisonment await those who violate the fixed price law.

Burning Coal Ashes.

This is a chemist's formula for burning coal ashes: One pound common salt, two ounces oxalic acid, one gallon water. Mix and moisten with it a mixture containing one part coal and three parts ashes, and a better fuel cannot be burned. This mixture will, upon being placed upon a burning fire, fuse into a cokelike mass and deposit but little residue.

TWO HELD IN MURDER CASE
Widow and Partner of Slain Missourian Arrested.
St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 30.—With the arrest of two persons, the widow and the former employer and partner in a garage business of William C. Gould, who was found murdered, the police believe they are close to a solution of the mystery of the man's death. The man held in connection with the crime is C. F. Wineinger. He was arrested in Kansas City, Mo. The arrest of Wineinger followed closely an examination by detectives. Acting on information obtained by this questioning, two officers were dispatched to Kansas City to bring back Wineinger. He had been under surveillance the last two days. Gould was found shot and beaten with a hammer on the King Hill road just outside the south city limits. He had evidently been dead two or three hours.
